Event overview

The conference

The NSW Mining Health, Safety, Environment and Community (HSEC) Conference and Awards brings together key policy experts and decision makers to talk about the operational and regulatory challenges, issues and opportunities in our industry.

We will cover the topics that matter to a range of experts, leaders and specialists, from risk, communications and safety to rehabilitation, mine closure planning and community engagement.

And we provide a platform for like-minded people and businesses to come together to discuss leading practice, performance and business opportunities in health and safety, environmental management and community engagement. And we want you to join us.

Partner with us and your business will benefit

This event is the biggest of its type in NSW, attracting more than 500 people from industry, consultants and government regulators.

We are supported strongly every year due to a high quality program, the opportunity to learn from experts and a range of networking opportunities.

Key reasons to partner with us at this event include:

- Leadership | Position your business as a market leader.
- Exposure | Expose your brand repeatedly to your target market through our industry database and at the event.
- Networking | Meet colleagues, clients or suppliers and network with decision makers.

Couple your trade exhibition stand with a conference sponsorship to ramp up your exposure and make a strong statement about your business and its importance to the mining industry.
